Publication Details	Notes
English	A book of essays on the subject of illustration, with the focus entirely on English
Graphic	artists using graphic media; drawings, prints and watercolours. The pieces are 2012	largely drawn from Tom Lubbock's weekly Great Works column for the
Frances	Independent, with some longer pieces originally published as reviews or catalogue
Lincoln	essays. Energetic, coherent and strange, English Graphic presents an electrical storm of ideas and illuminations provocatively argued by one of our most brilliant writers on art.

Publication Notes Details Until In 2008, Tom Lubbock was diagnosed with a rare brain tumour and told he had only Further two years to live. Physically fit and healthy, and suffering from few symptoms, he Notice. I am faced his death with the same directness and courage that had marked the rest of Alive his life. As the Independent's chief art critic, Lubbock was renowned for the clarity 2012 and unconventionality of his writing, and his characteristic fierce intelligence Granta permeates this extraordinary chronicle. With unflinching honesty and curiosity, he repeatedly turns over the fact of his mortality, as he wrestles with the paradoxical question of how to live, knowing we're going to die. Defying the initial diagnosis, Tom survived for three years. He savoured his remaining days; engaging with books, art, friends, his wife and their young son, while trying to stay focused on the fact of his impending death. But this is much more than a book about illness; rather, it's a book about a man who remains in thrall to life, as he inches closer to death. Great The best of Tom Lubbock, one of Britain's most intelligent, outspoken and Works: 50 revelatory art critics, is collected here for the first time. Ranging with passionate Paintings perspicacity over eight hundred years of Western art, whether it's Giotto's raging Explored vices, Guston's 'slobbish, squidgy' pinks, Gericault's pile of truncated limbs or Gwen 2011 John's Girl in a Blue Dress, Tom Lubbock writes with immediacy and authority about Frances the fifty works which most gripped his imagination.
