

Ellie Irving

Children's Author

Ellie was born in Bristol, but raised in a hamlet on the outskirts of Southend-on-Sea, by a family of avid readers. So avid, in fact, her mum enrolled her in the local library before she'd even emerged from the womb, which was awkward for all concerned. When she was seven, Ellie's passion for writing stories flourished when her parents bought her a Petite Super International typewriter for Christmas, and there was no stopping her. As well as seeing her name in print in the local paper, she soon found that writing and presenting neatly-typed manuscripts also made for very cheap presents.
