

Christopher Granier-Deferre

Producer

Christopher is a seasoned producer with a career spanning over thirty years, five continents, a brief spell in 'zero G' and a considerably colder stint in the arctic. He began as a runner, moved through the ranks to first assistant director, then production manager and line-producer before becoming a producer / executive producer in his own right. His expertise encompasses film and television, from blockbuster studio fare to micro-budget features via factual television.
