

Jo Fuertes-Knight

Jo Fuertes-Knight is a tenacious filmmaker, presenter and writer. Born and based in London, she started her career in magazine journalism before landing a weekly column named 'Girl Eats Food' for youth culture platform VICE. This was swiftly made into a Lovie-nominated video series which The Guardian called "the funniest thing to come from VICE in a decade". In 2012 she joined VICE full time as an editor, before moving into presenting and producing video across the company.
