

Charlotte Surtees

Producer

Charlotte is currently developing an original project, LONDON MONSTER, as a co-production with Phil Temple's Birdie Pictures. Charlotte recently block produced series three of GANGS OF LONDON for Sky & AMC. Before this she produced two new drama series based in the Midlands; 1980s period drama THIS TOWN, created & written by Steven Knight for the BBC and ITV's crime drama, DI RAY, written by Maya Sondhi and executive produced by Jed Mercurio.

Charlotte is a frequent collaborator with director, Al Campbell, having produced his first series of CODE 404. This ambitious hi-concept, sci-fi comedy series became Sky's fastest binged comedy boxset ever. Charlotte then reteamed with Al & Kudos to produce the first series of award winning TWO WEEKS TO LIVE for Sky & HBO Max, before returning with the gang to produce series two of CODE 404.

Her latest project with Al Campbell is folk-horror short film, THE AWAKENING, written by Nat Saunders, James Serafinowicz & Al Campbell, starring Daniel Mays. THE AWAKENING was selected for the BFI London Film Festival, 2024 and other film festivals across North America and the UK. A television version is currently in development with a major international streaming service.

Having started her producing career in specialist factual documentary, Charlotte's scripted development work began with setting-up Darlow Smithon Productions scripted slate, going on to develop and executive produce factual comedy-dramas DAVE ALLEN AT PEACE and WE'RE DOOMED! THE DAD'S ARMY STORY, written by Stephen Russell. Charlotte then ran the writing room at Nutopia for Netflix docudrama series, THE LAST CZARS, before moving to Stolen Picture to develop projects with comedy legends, Simon Pegg and Nick Frost.
