

Caroline Craig

Author

Caroline Craig read Anthropology at University, before working at publishers Random House and Penguin in London.

An idea on a train, in the grand tradition of many great book ideas, led to her first cookbook, a collection of packed lunch recipes for the office worker: 'The Little Book of Lunch', written with friend and fellow writer Sophie Missing. Two more books followed with Missing, 'The Cornershop Cookbook', 'The Little Book of Brunch' and a weekly recipe column in The Guardian newspaper.

Provence: Recipes from the French Mediterranean 2019 Kyle Books	Provence is the fruit and vegetable garden of France, where much of its most beautiful produce is grown. These ingredients combined with Provence's unique identity, position and history have resulted in a cuisine full of heart, balance and soul, a cuisine that showcases its peoples' reverence for the produce, the changing seasons and the land. Caroline Rimbert Craig's maternal family hail from the southern foothills of Mont Ventoux, where the sun beats hard and dry, but aromatic herbs, vines and fruit trees prosper. This is her guide to cooking the Provençal way, for those who want to eat simply but well, who love to cook dishes that rhyme with the seasons, and who want to recreate the flavours of the Mediterranean at home, wherever that may be.
