

Robin Bunce

Robin Bunce is Director of Studies for History and Politics at Homerton College, University of Cambridge. His biography of activist and journalist Darcus Howe, published by Bloomsbury in 2014, contained the first published history of the British Black Power movement. Bunce has also written on issues of politics and popular culture for the New Statesman, The Guardian, The Independent and the Huffington Post.

He is the co-author of Diane Abbott: The Authorised Biography.

Agents

Sophie Scard

SScard@unitedagents.co.uk

Publications

Non-Fiction

Publication Details	Notes
Diane Abbott: The Authorised Biography
2020
Biteback
