

Jenny Wells

Jenny spent the early years of her childhood on an aged narrowboat with no television, leaving her plenty of time to daydream.

As an adult, she had a series of office jobs which she endured by daydreaming at her desk.

She tried to escape the rat race by moving to Devon and starting a family but, now that she had kids to look after, there was less time for daydreaming.

Jenny still suffers from daydreams, but these days she writes them down and turns them into novels.
