

Julie Haworth

With a degree in English and American Literature, Julie worked as an English teacher for a number of years, specialising in working with learners with literacy difficulties, before launching her own copywriting business. Julie writes uplifting stories about friendship and community, bursting with romance and charm, from her home in the city of Chelmsford, Essex. When she's not busy writing, she can mainly be found shopping, drinking ridiculous amounts of coffee and hanging out with her two rescue cats.
