

Richard Blakemore

Richard Blakemore has studied pirates for over a decade, from his Cambridge Ph.D to his role as Associate Professor in Social and Maritime History at the University of Reading, where he teaches the most popular module, 'Pirates of the Caribbean: Empire, Slavery, and Society, 1550-1750'. He has been a consultant for the National Maritime Museum; appeared on local and national BBC radio; on Channel 5's Great British Ships; produced two series of podcasts; and written for blogs and magazines such as History Today.

Current publication:

Agents

---

Robert Kirby
0203 214 0800

Assistant
Olivia Davies
odavies@unitedagents.co.uk
020 3214 0884