

Dr Yasmin Khan

Dr Yasmin Khan is University Lecturer in 18th to early 20th century British History at the University of Oxford. She did a PhD on the History of the British Empire at Oxford University and has taught at the Edinburgh University and Royal Holloway, University of London. Her first book, The Great Partition: the making of India and Pakistan, won the Gladstone Prize for History from the Royal Historical Society.

Agents

James Gill

jgill@unitedagents.co.uk